

Genesis: The Key to the Bible
(Part 12) A Genealogy of the True Followers of God Descended from Adam _____ are one of the portions of scripture we are quick to dismiss as “_____” reading

Genealogies were not intended to be used as a _____.

Most who reads Genesis chapter 5 would think that one only need add up the numbers contained here in order to establish the _____ of civilization upon the earth.

The naming of individuals did not necessarily imply that a continuous _____ was to be assumed.

Often names are _____, and genealogical lists are _____

“The expression ‘A begat B’ does not always imply _____ parentage.”

Terms like ‘son’ and ‘father’ can mean not only ‘_____’ and ‘grandfather,’ but also ‘descendant’ and ‘_____’ respectively.”

Chapter 4 gives us the genealogy of Cain, a people _____ to God

In chapter 5 Moses describes the _____ line of Adam through Seth.

(Genesis 5:1-3) God’s plans and purposes to be carried out through Adam’s seed, Seth

(Genesis 5:4-32) Man was originally intended to _____ many years

Conditions for longevity were undoubtedly different _____ to the flood.

The long length of life would _____ the population of the earth

Not every child was _____ – “other sons and daughters”

Men of faith

Seth – appointed by God (4:25)

Enosh – started worshipping the Lord by _____ (4:26)

Enoch - walked so closely with God he never _____ (5:21-23)

Lamech - naming of his son revealed his _____ of the fall, and God’s curse upon the ground (5:29).

Also indicated his _____ that God would deliver man from the curse through the seed of Eve.

Chapter 5 is a grim reminder that the wages of sin is death and that God keeps His Word, in judgment and in _____

All men will die, but some will be raised to everlasting _____ while the people of faith will spend eternity in the presence of God (John 5:28,29; Revelation 20).